Randall Manufacturing Appoints Greg Jones Product Manager of Randall Manufacturing's Transportation and Access Product Lines

ELMHURST, IL (July 22, 2015) Randall Manufacturing today announced the appointment of Greg Jones as Product Manager, a newly created position for Randall Manufacturing's transportation and access product lines. Randall Manufacturing is headquartered in Elmhurst, Illinois. Randall Manufacturing is one of the largest manufacturers of temperature control products for refrigerated trailers and single-temperature trucks. Its newest division, Randall Access, manufactures a wide variety of truck and trailer access products, including straight and folding safety walkramps, platforms, and steps.

"Assuming this role at Randall at this time is exciting as we are expanding our Access product lines and are developing closer relationships with all aspects of the market. This new position will also enable us to explore new markets and opportunities for growth," said Jones.

Jones has more than 30 years of experience in operations, maintenance, strategic planning, and marketing in the transport refrigeration and trucking industries. He has held numerous sales leadership roles with both Carrier and Thermo King; most recently as Sales Manager for a local Carrier dealer - Gateway Truck & Refrigeration.

"We are excited to have Greg join our sales team. His deep industry experience will allow him to make fast inroads with our products, his sales territory, and growing our Access products market," said Chuck Carey, Vice-President of Sales.

Jones earned his MBA from Penn State University and holds a bachelor's degree from California University of Pennsylvania.
